

Nothing means more to Main Street Marina than our guests, both those who've enjoyed visiting us and those we've yet to meet, so we're reaching out to let everyone know what we're doing to address the potential health threat presented by coronavirus (COVID-19.)

We assure you that the Marina, our boats - the Landing Princess & the Lake Queen - and the Paddlewheel, our restaurant and lounge, have always been well-maintained and incredibly clean, however, even with the diligence we already employ, we've taken steps above and beyond to ensure that all areas of Main Street Marina are kept as sanitary as possible.

We're happy to share some additional details of the plan we've implemented to protect everyone to the best of our ability, and in accordance with guidelines presented by the CDC, WHO, and local health officials. Here at Main Street Marina, we've educated our staff on the increased importance of thorough handwashing and keeping their workstations clean. They've also been asked to monitor their own health and to protect themselves and others by staying home when they're sick. Additionally, we're making sure that all restroom facilities are routinely inspected so that everything needed to keep hands clean is readily available. Most importantly, we send our heartfelt thoughts and prayers to all those affected by coronavirus and ask that every business owner join us in taking the necessary precautions to protect their guests and communities.

With our continued attention to being prepared, including educating ourselves on the virus and staying abreast of news pertinent to its potential threat, we're confident that our entire property will continue to be safe. Please know that we're always available to answer questions, and we look forward to seeing our loyal guests and new friends enjoying themselves here in Branson at Main Street Marina!
